Introduction

Why introduce a Full Membership Program?

Higher education industry has grown rapidly in the last decade to become a sizable industry within developed and developing economies. Collaborations between higher education institutions are more frequent, and there is a growing need to cater to the increasing transparency demanded by all stakeholders to navigate complexity and strengthen trust in higher education.

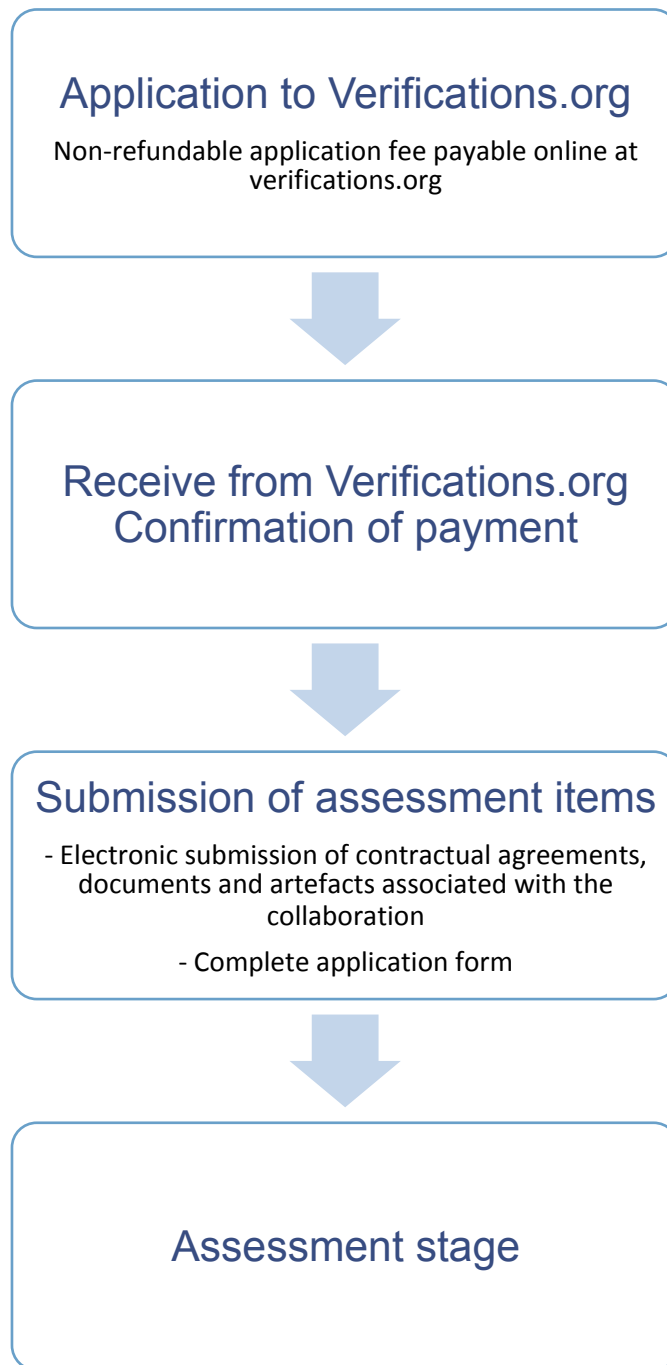

The Full Membership program serves to verify the authenticity and give assurance that the collaboration between higher education institutions is genuine. To safeguard their interest, education stakeholders should only trust third-party verification organizations to verify the authenticity of the collaboration claimed by different higher education institutions.

What can education stakeholder expect from a Full membership verified by verifications.org?

A higher education institution who achieves the Full Member status with verifications.org will have its academic programs certified as authentic collaboration with another higher education institution. A well-defined academic program and collaboration practices and systems form the foundation for good industry practices and standards.

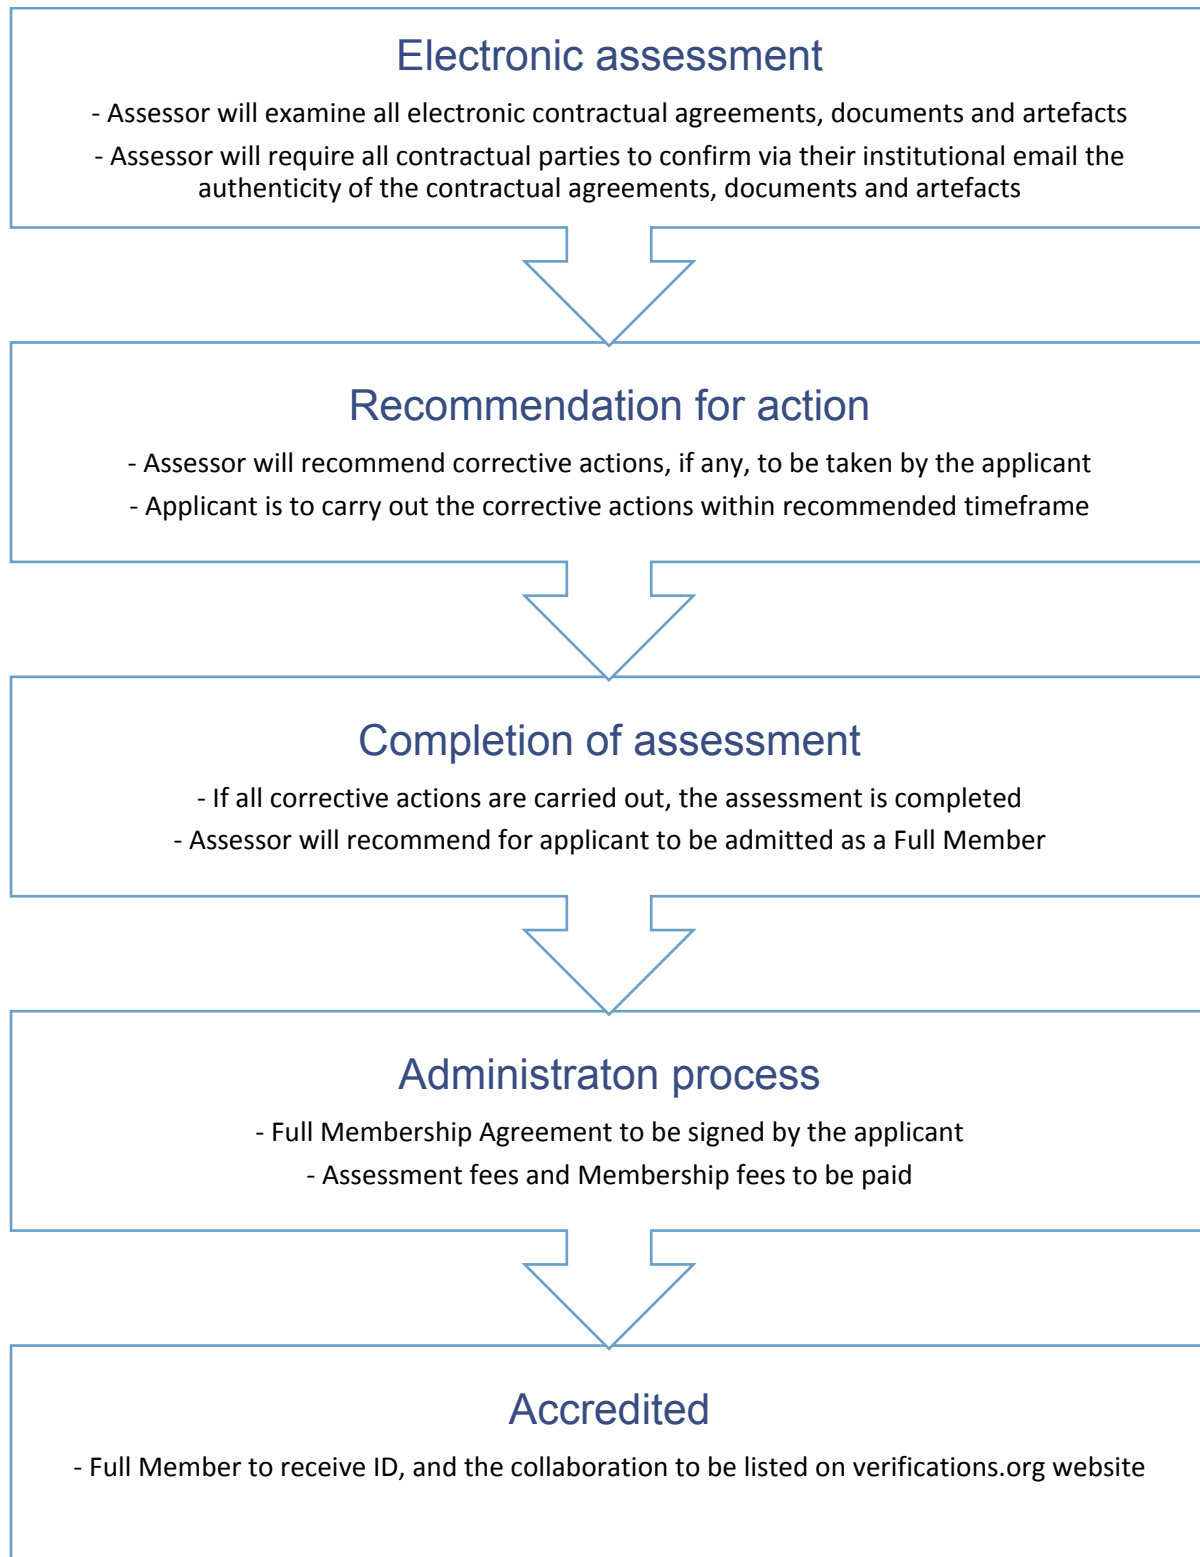

Verifications.org verifies every collaboration document, artefact, contractual agreement between the higher education institutions, as well as authenticates the authenticity of the correspondence and signatories. Signatories are documented against the higher education institution's official weblink and records, and individually and independently verified by verifications.org to ensure the highest level of assurance to education stakeholders.
